Example

Every basketball player, in my opinion, possesses his own unique strength. Being a buzzer beater is one of such skills. End-of-game buzzer beaters are one of the most thrilling aspects of basketball. The team will triumph because of the buzzer beater guest player, as well as the team's collective effort. Before the timer runs out, he will be able to fire the ball. Officials will examine it, though, to ensure that the ball is released before the time limit runs out. The guest team will be declared champion by the officials. The guest team will bring home the bacon. They will toast the occasion with a large number of drinks, as if it's the last.

Dear Mr. Danny Smith,

I am writing this letter to inquire about a scholarship program that your university offers to new students. I have completed my bachelor's degree in Engineering and I want to pursue a master's degree in the same field.

I have met all the qualifications and have attached all the requirements. I look forward to hearing your response on my eligibility to receive a scholarship at your university.

I will be very much thankful to get financial support from you.
Sincerely, Faith Lopez

Example

The world of education is constantly changing, but opinions about private versus public schools will always differ. It is widely believed that private school education is of a higher quality than public school education, but new study results suggest that this may not be the case. In my opinion, private schools are more preferred than public schools for many reasons. Personally, I think private schools promotes strong and highly satisfying teaching, promotes better learning in training, and inhibits rampant bullying. From my perspective the benefits of private schools for the students are that they have smaller class sizes and better teacher ratios from the students. Private schools have high standards for discipline and respect for one another.

An Olympic runner competing in a track and field event.

Question/s : What do you think the Olympic runner will do next?

1. The runners positioned themselves and took a deep breath before the race.
2. The race began when the Olympic runner unexpectedly slipped.
3. The runner struggles to stand up and he is thinking of what to do next.

one's fruit of labor - 노력의 열매
rise up - 일어나다
philosophy - 철학
ovation - 박수갈채
tenacity - 끈기

Image

Example

A famous athlete once said, Maybe I'm a loser, but I'm not a quitter.. That is something I suppose the Olympic runners will consider. Most athletes aren't easily discouraged because they don't want their practicing efforts to be in vain. Being the first isn't always the best way to win. It's the fruit of your labor. Because of these thoughts, the runner will rise up and go without stopping. A different runner will have the same philosophy. He will no longer be concerned with his own victory; instead, he will offer a helping hand to the struggling runner. Because of their bravery and tenacity, they will be viewed as winners by many. The crowd will applaud and cheer in support of the runners. They will give a standing ovation.
